

ABSTRACT

Midkine (MK), which is a retinoic acid-inducible heparin-binding growth factor, enhances neutrophilic 5 migration and exists in an inflammatory state at a high concentration. The midkine or its inhibitors can be used for treating neutrophilic functional disorders or inflammatory diseases.